Perspective Shift

An encouragement from the Lord:

To rise up is to let go. To shift perspective and look up. From whence does your help come, when not from the Lord?

Choose to see from My perspective – from above – what I have called you to. Look down on what would restrict and hinder, and maintain your connection through letting go and looking up.

In My Kingdom, on your own you are not enough but together we can do all things. Faith has eyes to see what has not yet been revealed naturally.

The 'least of these' will be first, and those who choose to elevate themselves will be brought low.

Obedience is better than sacrifice; true nourishment and satisfaction come from doing My will alone.

Choose to look at everyday life from the right place, from the grace space, where peace abounds and great grace is found.
